Scott Lanz is responsible for all construction management activities at Madison Highland and has personally overseen the construction of all developments related to Rob Seldin since 1999. As one of the most respected leaders in apartment construction in the Mid-Atlantic and Southeastern regions, Scott has managed the design and construction of over 50 residential and hospitality projects, with a total construction value exceeding $4 billion. Many of Scott's projects have received industry awards for design, lease-up, and innovation. Each project benefits from his meticulous attention to detail and his well-known humility, which contribute to creating lasting value both now and in the future.
